Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. Claims 11,24,25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Powers et al (6,360,120) in view of Lin et al (6,289,243).

Re claim 11, see previous office action. Re claim 24, the device of Powers is considered to suggest that the adapter itself is a memory support, which is also the case from applicant's figures. Further, even if the memory support were considered by applicant to be something other than the adapter, one of ordinary skill in the art would consider that some type of support is necessary to fix the memory to the cable. Re claim 25, the mere addition of another memory device to the combination above would not be unpredictable in ^{its} outcome. That is, one of ordinary skill in the art would know how to put another memory device on the lead, and the result of such combination would also be predictable. ('...a court must ask whether the improvement is more than the predictable use of prior art elements according to their established functions', in KSR 82 USPQ1396). A further memory device would allow for more or different types of data to be stored, or to serve as a backup in case the primary memory device failed.

2. Claims 11,24,25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Powers et al (6,360,120) in view of Hampele et al (5,713,927).

Re claim 11, see previous office action. Re claims 24,25, see rejection supra.

Allowable Subject Matter

3. Claims 7-10,26-39 are allowed.

Applicant's remarks have been considered, however the above rejections are still deemed to be proper. Re claims 11 and 24, one of ordinary skill in the art would understand that a memory device, such as shown in Powers, can be used to store a wide variety of data. Further, 'one of ordinary skill in the art is also a person of ordinary creativity and not an automaton', see KSR cited above. That is, one of ordinary skill would know how to configure the memory device in a predictable way using known techniques, if desired. In contrast, for example re claims 7 and 26, the cable identification data is considered to be positively set forth, and to be actually stored in the memory, not just capable of being stored in the memory.

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
